Robert Malthus population studies.

Since then it has been known that human populations have increased geometrically with time i.e. the world population tends repeatedly to double itself at equal increments of time.

we can make a case that starting with one man & 1 woman we have gone through slightly more than 30 "doublings" to reach our current world population.
